Whig candidate for Governor of We have the pleasure of a per-nance with this gentleman. He ears ago, a travelling Methodist l belonged to the Virginia and ina Conference. He is a man of rity, strong mind, and possesses of character. He is a self-made ne to this State from New Engedler. While engaged in ven-es, he applied himself studiously He soon located, and after havied an enviable character for ty and piety, he presented him-idate for the ministry, was ree Methodist connection, and la-velling preacher until the year ie removed to the West. He way to the Bench in Mississip-has distinguished himself as an nd now he is about to be elevat-ief Magistracy of the State.
tuck presents a brilliant exam-ual effort and success, and of the cellence of our republican sysrich men may raise themselves n merits from the humblest to the highest stations in the and his success ought to stim-ourage the hundreds and thou-youth who are entering upon brighter prospects than those shone upon his early pathway, gorous and persevering efforts.
tain to the highest point of emery one can do something for his country; and his motto, at be "FLL TRY."

2000 troops under his command.—The most intelligent citizens of San Antonio were fully satisfied that the expedition is intended to operate against Texas.—N. O. Nat. Amer.

Mr. Tyler arrived at Washington on the morning of the 6th inst. By the provisions of the Constitution he will be the acting President of the United States until the 4th of March, 1845. In the event of his death, resignation or removal, the duty of designating the acting President until a new election is held, would devolve upon the two houses of Congress. By the promotion of the Vice President to the Chief Magistracy, the Senate have to choose one of their body to preside over their deliberations.—The person thus chosen, however, does not exercise any of the other functions of the Vice President.
—Hon Mr. Southard, we believe, now holds this station by virtue of an election of the called session.—Mem. Enq.

ODDS AND ENDS.—Pork may be salted, particularly for bacon, without barrels. Nearly all the western pork is salted in bulk—that is, piled up in one corner of a room like a pile of bricks, and sprinkled with dry salt. It is well to overhaul it once to see that the salt touches all parts.—I never ate better bacon than that made in this way, without a drop of pickle.

To keep bacon hams in summer.—Pack them in a flour barrel, in clean, dry ashes, or charcoal; head up the barrel and put it up stairs, where it is dry, and cool as possible.

Pickled beef and pork.—in the south and west, is apt to sour. Take it out and smoke it dry—throw away the old pickle or cleanse it by boiling. Smoke the barrel thoroughly and re-pack the meat.

Don't throw away the Udder of your beef cow. Salted, smoked, and dried, it is rich, delicious eating. Boil and eat it like cold tongue. Try it.

Lard never spoils in warm weather if it is cooked enough in frying out.

Wash your butter thoroughly in cold water and work out all the buttermilk: pack it in a stone jar and stop the mouth air-tight, and it will keep sweet forever.

TOMATOES make an excellent preserve.

SWEET OR OLIVE OIL is a certain cure for bite of a rattlesnake. Apply it internally and externally.

TO CURE SCRATCHES ON A HORSE—Wash the legs in warm strong soap suds, and then with beef brine. Two applications will cure the worst case.

A lump of Salaratus or Pearlash, crowded into the pipe of poll evil or thistelow, two or three times, will cure this incurable disease.

CORN MEAL should never be ground very fine. It injures the richness of it. Try

One watch set right will do to set many by; and on the other hand, one that goes wrong may be the means of misleading a whole neighborhood. And the same may be said of the example we individually set to those around us.
