CORN MEAL should never be ground very fine. It injures the richness of it. Try it coarse. This is the secret why the western "dodgers" are so good.

RICE is often over boiled. It should never be boiled in more water than it will absorb while boiling. Put two cups of rice in three cups of water, and in eight minutes after it commences boiling it is done.

The Loco editors are trying to make merry on account of the very large number of office-seekers throughout the country. Well, why are there such swarms of office-seekers in all parts of the land? Why but because the restrictive policy of the Jackson Van Buren Administration has reduced thousands and tens of thousands from independence to poverty.

Who ever heard of such troops of office-seekers, ere the prosperity of the country was paralyzed and honest labor deprived of its reward?—Loc. Jour.
