FOLLOWING BAD EXAMPLE.—The following paragraph from the Macon (Geo.) Telegraph shows how those are educating their children by example, who resort to the pistol and the knife to "settle differences." The boys were less to blame than men would have been in the same case :

An unfortunate affair occurred in La Grange, Troup County, on Friday last, in which a young man, by the name of Lane, was killed by another named Nichols. It appears that a misunderstanding had taken place between them the evening previous—that the next morning Lane had, while they were by themselves out of the village, inflicted a chastisement on Nichols, which his superior strength enabled him to do. After returning, Nichols provided himself with a knife and stick, and on meeting the other, after a few words, struck him with the stick, and afterwards stabbed him in the breast. Lane retreated a few steps, drew a pistol, and before he was able to fire, fell dead. Nichols was from Milledgville, and a student in the Academy, about seventeen years old. Lane was a clerk, and about twenty years old; both young men of promise and very respectable connexions.

COMMITTEE OF ONE.—It is proposed in a Boston paper that every man should constitute himself into a self-examing committee to inquire into his own conduct. It is believed that the business that each committee would have to perform would keep it constantly and usefully employed.

"Too slow."—A worthy man died, leaving a rich and beautiful widow; the clergyman of the parish, a widower, accompanied her home from the grave and spoke in conoling tones of the loss she was bewailing. The clergyman, being a kind and tender hearted man, told her, by way of consolation, that her loss was not irreparable, and intimated to her, in terms not to be misunderstood, that he should be happy at a proper time to marry her. To which the widow replied: "Oh, my dear sir, you are too late—the deacon spoke to me at the grave."

The Locofocos call Mr. Speaker White "the creature of Henry Clay." If the rascals went to church oftener they would learn that all men are "creatures of clay."—Nat. Cour.

CURE FOR CORNS.—A subscriber to your valuable paper told me a few days since how he had cured several corns, which had compelled him to wear mocasins. He paired them off with a sharp knife, bathed them freely with Spirits of Turpentine, and laid them upon a linen cloth which he frequently preciate, the truth of this blessed assurance, than those sorrowers themselves. They had been witnesses of his pure and spotless life; they stood around him in his last moments, when, if ever on earth, the strength of faith is tried; they heard his last words—"I AM PREPARED TO DIE!" they received his kind adieus—on the verge of time; saw him in full view of eternity, with countenance serene—sure index of a soul at peace—of a conscience void of offence toward God and man, quietly, and without a murmur or a struggle, resign himself to death, as to a sweet sleep, in the soul cheering hope of a blissfull reunion in Heaven, with those he loved on earth.

The God of mercy has received his spirit, and will extend his sustaining love to those gentle sufferers, whose earthly stay he has taken to himself.

The newspapers of Georgia and Mississippi will be pleased to copy the foregoing obituary, and oblige many friends.
