COTTON SPRINGS

Written for last week.

As my ink thawed, thought I would write a few dots. Health is good except James Milstead has a severe case of toothache. The remains of Miss Jacola Hood were laid to rest in the Moore Cemetery Friday. Reports from the entertainment at the home of Mrs. Gentry, was good. The Martin Brothers seem to be tractoring, despite such cold days. I noticed the whistle blew this morning. Cotton Springs boys played Midway an interesting game of basket ball Friday. Scores 4 to 0 in favor of Cotton Springs. George Warren, of Marietta, was called to the burial services of his aunt last week. Mrs. Maudie Milstead visited her brother, Jud Harris, of Moore's Mill Sunday. Santa Claus presented the Misses Martin with an organ. I'll bet they have music. Come gain, Green Eyes, of Baldwyn; your letters are read with much interest. As news is scarce I'll go, and will come again when the days are warmer. BROWN EYES.
